FINANCIAL LITERACY RESOURCES

Examples of Teaching Resources

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) suggests reviewing each of the following to determine value to the local educational system and vetting for quality. This list is not a complete listing, but offers examples for beginning or enhancing K-12 financial literacy instruction. Some items are for teachers; some are for students. Some are free, and some have a fee. This list is fluid, so check back routinely to see what has been added.

The new standards are a collaboration of Jump$tart and the Council for Economic Education (Jump \$tart National Standards in K-12 Personal Finance Education) were developed through the involvement of professionals across multiple financial literacy platforms. After review by KSDE, it was deemed appropriate for Kansas and were adopted as the Kansas financial literacy K-12 standards. (For more information: <https://www.jumpstart.org/>)

Determining a Quality Resource:

Consider the following when selecting/vetting resources as educationally sound:

- Content is accurate and is standard and/or competency-based (Refer to the JumpStart website, see page 8).
- Materials are free from bias and embrace diversity in activities, photos, discussions, etc.
- Assessments are designed (both formative and summative) to assess student mastery, allowing for modification as needed.
- Information shared is relevant and aligned with course/program objectives, standards and/or competencies.
- Instructional design is research-based and/or evidence-based, age appropriate and allows for multiple learning styles.

NON-ENGLISH PRINTED OPTIONS:

Please note the following resources have Spanish and/or other languages available. Some are just components, but others are the full resource:

- MoneySkill (see page 8).
- Next Gen Personal Finance (see page 9).
- Practical Money Skills for Life (see page 9).
- The Stock Market Game, Kansas Council for Economic Education (see page 5).
- EVERFI (see page 6).
